END OF DAY 2

Day-1:

The TOT started with introduction from Dr. Vaibhavi Uppadhyaya as opening for simulation training on Sim center faculty training course overview with activity from 10 am to 10.45 am on 22nd July 2021. In this activity time, SWOT analysis were given as activity for all staff to work on, i.e. strength, weakness, obstacle, threats analysis etc.

After a tea break, 10.45 am to 11.30 am, history and current use of simulation as next topic of presentation in TOT part 1. Dr. Vaibhavi madam talk about simulation started in other branches like simulation of flight training for pilot for training etc. And she point out how simulation is playing an important role in maintaining standard of skill and reduce the learning curve for student to learn clinical nursing skills.

The topic on design simulation teaching- learning activities was presented and discuss by Dr. Vaibhavi as next topic between 11.45 to 12.45 pm. It was very enlightening to learn and understand about various points. Discussion were on potential application of simulation like routine learning and rehearsal of clinical and communication skills, routine basic training of individuals teams and practice of complex clinical situations and training of teams in crisis resource management, rehearsal of serious or rare events etc. During this session, benefits of simulation like avoidance of risk to patients/ learners; reduce undesired interferences, tasked/scenarios as per need, repeatability of tasks, individually tailored training, increases retention and accuracy, facilitate transfer of learning from classroom to real life situation learning, and standard of student performance evaluation will be enhanced. She also mentioned about use of nursing process as guide for planning and designing simulation program. Various points on conceptual framework, outcome of simulation experience were discussed.

Features of simulation facilitating learning centre were provision of a range of clinical scenarios, provision of psychologically safe, supportive learning environment, active learning based on individual needs, defined outcomes,, simulator validity as realistic recreation. Various role of simulation in clinical teaching, simulation framework, design and implementation were discussed. Madam emphasizes the importance of evaluation during simulation like formative and summative form of checklist etc.

After lunch break, session commence with the topic linking simulation to assessment with activity stated at 2 pm. In this session, concepts of criterion referenced measurement and pass score etc. Basic step for development of a test to curriculum framework i.e. establishing the learning target, determine the knowledge, skill and attitude demand for the learning target as expressed in the curriculum, developing blueprint, determine an appropriate level of performance and passing score, determining appropriate length of time for students to hit the learning target. Methods of assessment in areas like skill using direct observation, structured feedback, OSCE, self-assessment, In attitude, assessment can be written exams, direct observation, OSCE and In knowledge domain, drill, quizzes, case studies, project report, essay , exams, OSCE etc were discussed.

Next session focuses on developing lessons plan and skill stations at 3 pm. In this session, need assessment like source of information i.e. learner expectation, learner testing results, faculty perception, regulatory requirement, patient care event reports, organizational priorities and its methods to identify such need, gaps and interest were discussed. This session focuses on curriculum development in reference to goals, objectives, educational strategies, implementation and evaluation. All sessions were very information, learning experience for all faculty.

Day 1 end with take home message on the point that were discussion on that day in a nutshell with orientation to what the audience will expect on the next day sessions.

Day 2

Second day of the TOT part-I stated at 10.30 am on 23rd July 2021. Scenarios-how to prepare, facilitate and debrief base on an activity with group involvement was the first session of the day. For this purpose, CPR dummy, equipment were arrange and kept ready. The groups were divided into group A, B and C. Group A leader Nuppor Bhambid and her team were asked to do preparation of scenarios under guidance of Dr. Jai and Dr. Vaibhavi. Group B was asked to do actual simulation. In which Ms. Smita, Ms. Komal, Mrs. Ashwini Sutar and Mrs. Samina were acting the role of rescuer in a case of cardiac arrest scenarios. All equipment and full body CPR dummy were provided and simulation was enacted. Group C asked to be observers and debrief after the scenarios were completed. Later question like how participant felt and their feedback were taken. And debrief was given, how to debrief, how to frame question and depersonalize the statement during feedback were practice. In next session, it focus on facilitate the development of health care delivery task.

There was a brief break for celebrating Guru Poomima with all teaching and non teaching staff with Samstha's Geet and flower offering to our founder Bharate Ratna Marharshi Karve statue and session assume back at 12.30 and continued till 1 pm, Dr. Vaibhavi and Dr. Jai demonstrated Clinical skill demonstration in four step methods, i.e. First step- demo by instructor without rationalization and explanation, second- demo by instructor with verbal explanation and rationales for each step, third step, and student will read the checklist and instructor will perform the task and final fourth step- students will demonstrate the task. Such methods of demonstration of clinical skill advantages were discussed. It was very educative and excellent sessions. After which lunch break was announced.

After lunch break, session resume back with session on coaching and feedback for health care task with activity at 2.30 pm. An activity was conducted with role play by Mr. Ajinkya and Dr. Vaibhavi in nonverbal act. Later feedbacks of observation were asked. Through this activity, observation, assumptions, omission were discussed and how such assumption might play a role in providing feedback. The session presentation talks about effective vs. ineffective coach. The effective coach focuses on the practical, encourages working together in congenial relationship, works to reduce stress, fosters two-way communication and effective coach is a facilitator of learning. Whereas, the ineffective coach focuses on the theoretical, maintains a distance, often creates stress, uses one-way communication, and acts as the authority or the only source of knowledge.

During the simulated practice certain tips were shared in the sessions like asking skilled learner coach to each others, use assessment tools for learning and continual assessment, applying coaching skills etc. The skill assessment should focus on 1) acquisition in which it demonstrate, practice skill, reinforce correct behaviors, 2) competency- in that student can perform accurately and with some confidence, use assessment tool and 3) proficiency- in this, health care professional can perform efficiently, can make appropriate clinical decisions making skills. The presentation contents were very educative and learning experience. After skill assessment, the session focuses on effective feedback. It include providing feedback -being timely, be specific, prompt student to say what they think they might be doing correctly and what they need to practice more on, avoid blaming/critical statements, instead use something such as ' I noticed that....'. Dr. Vaibhavi madam also point out the importance of depersonalizing the stamen instead of being critics and pointing out faults.

Dr. Vaibhavi emphasized the role of good checklist bank for maintaining standard and quality clinical skill for nursing students. So as part of TOT part-1, she provided a list of procedure for which, checklist need to be made base on format she provided as handout for reference. She also have provided two ebook for frame of references and shared with all faculties through emails forwarded by Mrs. L. Bijayalakshmi Devi. Pretest, posttest and feedback were taken in these two days sessions of simulation of training of trainers by Dr. Vaibhavi and next TOT part-2 session will be in month of September 2021 as per schedule.

The session of the day concluded with encouraging words from Dr. Vaibhavi and ended at 4.20 pm.
