CODE OF ETHICS OF FACULTY AND NON-TEACHING STAFF

A code of ethics is a set of guiding principles that all members of a profession accept.

Code of conduct for Principal/ head of the institute in MKSSSBTINE:

The Principal/head of an Institution should always be honest, fair, objective, supportive, protective, and law abiding. Code of professional conduct and ethics that are expected from the Principal are as follows.

1. He/she should ensure that the staff and students are well aware of rules, policies and procedures lay down by the institute.
2. Outline various important policies and plan to execute the vision and mission of MKSSSBTINE.
3. He/ She has to be fair in his/her actions for all the members of faculty, non-teaching staffs.
4. Listen to the student's ideas and set a supportive tone.
5. Execute any other qualitative and quantitative work for the welfare of the institution.
6. Recommend and forward communication about the institute progress from time to time to the authorities/ Samstha's Management authority.
7. Laid down any change in SOP as per prevailing situation in the institution and enforce them fittingly.
8. Carry himself/herself with the highest integrity and has to exhibit outstanding and strong leadership skills.
9. He/ She should uphold the dignity of the profession.

The Principal and Faculty of MKSSSBTINE is committed to and responsible for:

1. The public

They have a professional responsibility to serve the public interest and welfare and to further the knowledge of science. They should actively be concerned with the health and welfare of society. Public comments on scientific matters should be made with care and precision, without unsubstantiated, exaggerated, or premature statements.

2. The health science innovation and research and nursing teaching technology.

They should seek to advance science, understand the limitations of their knowledge, and respect the truth. They should ensure that their scientific contributions are thorough, accurate, and unbiased.

3. The profession

They should remain up-to-date with developments in their fields, share ideas and information, keep accurate and complete records, maintain integrity in all conduct and publications, and give due credit to the contributions of others. They should not be involved in conflicts of interest and scientific misconduct, such as fabrication and plagiarism.

4. The institute

They should promote and protect the legitimate interests of the Institute, perform work honestly and competently, fulfill obligations, help the development of the Institute, and safeguard proprietary information.

5. Employees

They should be cordial and respectful to all their colleagues. They should assist their seniors in the Institutional and Departmental activities. They should treat subordinates with respect for their professionalism and concern for their well-being, and provide them with a safe, congenial working environment, and proper acknowledgement of their scientific contributions.

6. Students

They should regard the tutelage of students as trust conferred by society for the promotion of the student's learning and professional development. Each student should be treated respectfully and without exploitation.

7. The Environment

They should understand and anticipate the environmental consequences of their work and avoid pollution and protect the environment.

8. Work

They should have integrity in teaching and service. Integrity requires a readiness to follow sound methods and analysis wherever they may lead, an awareness of one's own bias. Indifference to error, or efforts to ignore or conceal it, should stand to the professional discredit. Integrity in teaching involves presenting the substance and variant interpretations of the material covered in the course with intellectual honesty, fairness in judging students' work on its academic merits alone, and readiness to discuss students' views with open-mindedness and on their intellectual merits. Integrity in service involves the exercise of all those qualities that enable colleagues to have confidence in one another and, with mutual respect, to pursue common goals.
